3 NEW NATIONS SIGN CHARTER AND JOIN UN

Afghanistan, Sweden and Iceland Swell Number of Adherents to 54.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—Afghanistan, Iceland and Sweden signed documents of adherence to the United Nations charter today to increase the membership in the world peace agency to 54 countries.

The simple ceremony admitting the three newcomers was held in the ornate conference room of the massive assembly chamber where the three delegates took their seats for the first time.

Ahmed Hosayn Aziz, Afghan minister to the United States; Thor Thors, Iceland's minister to Washington, and Oestgn Unden, Sweden's foreign minister, signed the list in alphabetic order.

All three used personal pens and pocketed them for presentation to home governments.

First New Members

The three were the first countries taken into the world circle of nations since the signing of the charter by 51 nations.

For the formal signing the representatives stepped up singly to a circular table where Paul Henri-Spaak of Belgium, president of the assembly, was flanked by Secretary-General Trygve Lie and his eight assistants.

Outside the assembly building, three special flagpoles were erected in the center of the circle where the flags of the original 51 members fly. A special detachment of the United States Marines hoisted the three new banners.

Election of three new members of the security council and six of the economic and social council is the first principal business before the assembly. Colombia appeared almost certain to win one of the security council seats, while main contenders for the remaining two were Belgium, India and Syria. The seats will go to the three nations who receive the greatest number of votes in secret ballot.

Re-election Expected

Economic and social council members may succeed themselves and the present members are expected to be re-elected in most cases. The only possibilities for changes were in reported moves of Latin Americans to push Venezuela for the seat now held by Colombia and of another group to support replacement of Yugoslavia by New Zealand.

The report of the political committee recommending that the assembly request reconsideration in the security council of five rejected applications for UN membership may produce debate in today's session since the move has been consistently opposed by Russia and several other eastern European states.

The nations rejected when Iceland, Sweden and Afghanistan were accepted were Ireland, Portugal, Trans-Jordan, Outer Mongolia and Albania.

Russia supported India in a protracted discussion yesterday of India's proposal that administration of trust territories be conducted by the United Nations rather than by individual nations.

New Zealand told a trusteeship sub-committee that the Indian proposal was "completely unacceptable," but no decision was reached in the three-hour meeting which U. S. Delegate John Foster Dulles said showed "clearly that we have no capacity of administering anything."

600 VISIT GIRL IN IRON LUNG EXHIBIT

Truck Leaves Tonight for 4 Days in Columbus.

Approximately 600 persons inspected the iron lung exhibit on East Center street in front of the courthouse yesterday, attendants of Mary Lou Baker, the 20-year-old girl in the iron lung, said.

A similar number is expected today. The unit will move to Columbus tonight, where it will stay for the remainder of the week. Attendants said the group will exhibit in only a few more Ohio cities before suspending operations for the winter.

The exhibit is a feature of the Sister Kenny infantile paralysis fund-raising campaign which will begin here soon and last until Dec. 7. Duanne Wiseman is acting Marion county chairman for the drive. James C. Woods is district chairman.

City Council Defeats Proposal To Issue 1941 Hospital Bonds

City council Monday night defeated a proposal that $200,000 in bonds for a fireproof addition and other improvements at City hospital, authorized in the general election of 1941, be issued. The vote against issuance was five to four.

In accordance with council's directive, the administrative branch of the city government will take no action to issue the bonds, which will become dead Dec. 31.

The vote came after an hour and a half of discussion on the measure. A public hearing to sound out opinion of the issue was called by council last Saturday night.

Councilman-at-Large C. R. Pennisten, the last to vote, broke a 4-4 tie to defeat the measure. He had gone on record during the pre-vote discussion as opposing issuing the bonds because (1) the situation was different now than at the time when the voters authorized the issue; (2) he did not believe the people would pass a similar proposal if it were put up now; and (3) building a $200,000 addition now would preclude putting up a complete new hospital later.

How Council Voted

Councilmen voting for issuance were: Paul G. Simpson, Clarence K. Salter, Clarence Sanden, and Malcom Severens. Voting against the motion were Harold F. Robinson, D. R. Biggert, A. H. Dowler, Charles R. Tate, and Pennisten.

The motion that council on go record as approving issuance of the bonds was made by Simpson and seconded by Salter. Following its being voted down, which defeated the measure for all practical purposes, council decided to repeal, for the record, the 1942 council's directive to issue the bonds. A motion to pass a repealing ordinance by emergency legislation, which would have effected repeal last night, was defeated by the same line-up as the vote on issuance of the bonds. The repealing motion was therefore given only its first reading last night.

Councilmen Biggert and Robinson stated during the discussion that they saw eye-to-eye with the mayor, who had gone on record against issurance because, he said, the present measure would provide the city with only a "hodge-podge" hospital and would probably prevent the city's ever getting a new hospital. Councilman Tate maintained that erection of the present temporary addition fulfilled the city's obligation to the people who voted for the bonds in 1941. No further taxation is needed, he said.

Says More Promised

Councilman Simpson held that the present addition was not what the voters were promised, not being a fire-proof addition; that such funds may not become available again; and that by having funds ready the city may expect to be first in line if and when the federal government appropriates matching funds for municipal hospital expansion.

Councilman Sanden said that he was convinced the present hospital facilities here are inadequate. "The people wanted us to spend this money," he said "and we should do something about it."

Councilman Salter also maintained there was not enough room at City hospital and said, "I can't turn anything down that would make toward the betterment of the hospital."

FARM PRICES STILL AT PEAK

Six Weeks of Decontrol Finds Scale Only Slightly Below Original Spurt.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 — Prices which farmers received for livestock today, at the start of the sixth week of decontrolled markets, were only slightly under peaks established immediately after ceilings were removed.

Other results of free trading include more meat, a corn-hog price relationship favorable for expanding the hog population, record numbers of cattle moving into mid-western feed lots and increased cold storage meat holdings.

The nation has had 30 days of free trading with these results:

1. A high of $37.00 paid for live cattle yesterday at Chicago equaled the best price on record for steers. Top on live hogs was $24.75 against a peak of $27.50 shortly after decontrol.

These prices were well above former OPA ceilings of $20.25 on cattle and $16.25 on hogs. In addition there was a subsidy of 50 cents to $2.40 on cattle and $1.75 on hogs.

2. Livestock receipts and meat supplies are much larger than in the period before decontrol. Cattle slaughter under federal inspection in October was up 207 per cent over September and hog slaughter 611 per cent.

3. Record numbers of stocker and feeder cattle have moved into mid-western feed lots, where they are being fed for later marketing as choice beef.

Slaughter of choice cattle "will continue small for the balance of this year," the agriculture department said, but added, "an increasing volume of such cattle may be forthcoming after the first of next year, with large supplies probable in the late spring and summer."

4. Meat prices are lower than immediately after decontrol, but far above former ceilings. Choice dressed beef carcass weighing 500 to 600 pounds at New York yesterday brought $45.00 to $48.00. Immediately after decontrol the

ASK CIO CONVENTION TO OKAY PAY DRIVE

By The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 19—The CIO convention was asked today by its resolutions committee to go on record for "substantial" wage increases.

A proposed wage resolution declares "there is no immediate prospect that runaway prices will be checked."

A proposed statement on labor laws asserts "we will not permit the reactionary open-shop employers of America and their legislative spokesmen to substitute for Democratic labor relations laws, the law of the jungle."

With much of their fireworks already exploded, the convention received 43 resolutions from the committee and began the tedious task of reading and passing them.

The CIO delegates, now 540 in number with a few still arriving, approved a resolution which urges the lowering of income taxes on low-paid persons, but asks "special taxes on the loot of post-war profiteers and speculator."

Marion Residents Check Coal Bins As Mine Strike Nears

Reports of a threatened general walkout of the nation's soft coal miners caused many Marion residents today to look at their empty coal bins and wonder if they would be able to get their coal supply before winter arrived.

They are expected to find little consolation from Marion's coal dealers, many of whom report their stock piles are practically gone and there is little hope the situation will improve within the near future.

Some local coal dealers report it is as difficult to obtain coal now as it was during the war. One dealer reported he was practically out of lump coal but had a small amount of stoker coal. Another said he had a part of a carload which already was sold. Still another said he just received a carload which he had ordered in August. He estimated about half of his customers already had laid in their winter supplies, while the rest would have to get along until additional supplies came in.

One dealer, who said he used his own truck to haul coal from southern part of the state, said he had enough to supply his own customers but he had a very limited stock on hand.

Recent cold snaps have brought in additional orders from persons who are hopeful of getting coal when it does come in, some dealers reported, while others said they were turning down orders they could not fill.

Harold J. Grigsby, general manager of the Marion division of the Ohio Public Service Co. and a vice president of the company, said the Marion division has a normal supply of coal on hand and indicated confidence the government would see that public utilities were provided coal supplies with which to operate.

Most of Marion's larger industries reported they had adequate supplies for the present and industrial leaders generally were confident they could weather a coal shortage for a while at least. The Marion Power Shovel Co., the Universal Cooler division of International Detrola, and the Fairfield Engineering Co. all reported they had ample supplies on hand for the present.

Some of the local industries were more concerned about the "indirect effect" a coal strike would have on their business than they were about their own coal supplies.

Fire Kills One At Cleveland

Hotel Blaze Fatal to Woman; 11 Hurt; 80 Made Homeless.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 19 — Fire that flashed through the 72-room, residential Hotel Belden on Cleveland's east side left one woman dead today, 11 others injured, five of them seriously, and nearly 80 occupants temporarily homeless.

Assistant Fire Chief James Nimmo estimated damage at $30,000 and said the blaze apparently had a good start before it was reported.

Origin was undetermined, but firemen expressed the opinion it started either from the first floor incinerator of the four-story brick structure or the basement boiler.

While most of the occupants were reading, listening to their radios, or otherwise occupied last night, flames swept up the stairwell, cutting off that means of escape to many top floor residents. Neighbors heroically led or helped a score or more frightened occupants to safety before fire companies arrived.

Mrs. Amelia Hirsch, telephone operator at the hotel, turned in the first alarm at 9:27 p. m. last night, then started notifying occupants to leave their rooms. She did not leave the switchboard until all the residents were out.

Two children were hurled from second and third floor windows into the arms of neighbors in the street. Some escaped by tying bed sheets together and letting themselves down from their windows. Ladders were brought hurriedly from homes nearby, and other occupants were brought down them.

The dead woman was identified from a metal tag in her purse as Mrs. Freeda C. Shanks, a middle-aged window. Her body bore severe burns but at the county morgue death was attributed to suffocation by smoke.

Of 11 persons taken to hospitals, only five were held overnight.

One occupant of the hotel, William J. Brown, 27, a violinist with the Cleveland orchestra, tossed a $1,500 violin and viola out the window before helping his wife, Marianne, 26, a violin teacher, to safety.

YOUNG HUNTER SHOT AT CAREY

Warren Youth Dies of Accidental Gun Shot Wounds.

Special to The Star

CAREY, Nov. 19—A 15-year-old youth of Warren, O., died of gunshot wounds about noon Monday when he was accidentally shot while hunting three and one-half miles northeast of here.

The boy was James DeCenso, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy DeCenso of Warren. Hancock County Coroner Byron F. Voorhees returned a verdict of accidental death.

The boy was in a party of six hunting in Crawford township. The accident happened when the youth attempted to climb over a line fence separating the L. G. Beis and the Willard Steif farms. According to witnesses, the boy's Godfather, Joseph Murgie, also of Warren, had leaned his gun against the fence. As the youth attempted to climb the fence the gun discharged the full blast striking him below the right shoulder blade.

He was taken to a physician here and died enroute to the Findlay hospital in the Bristoll funeral home ambulance.

Foot Hits Accelerator, Car Hits Locomotive

An automobile driven by Basil R. Baker, 40, of Gebhart street ran into the side of a slow-moving locomotive at the North Main street Erie railroad crossing Monday at 1:52 p. m., but neither car nor engine was seriously damaged, and no one was injured.

Baker said his foot slipped off the brake pedal to the accelerator as he approached the crossing. The car, northbound, jumped ahead and rammed the side of the westbound engine, damaging a step on the cab. The front end of the car was smashed, but the vehicle was driveable.

Virgil Jackson of near Marion was a passenger in Baker's car.

81-Year-Old Son To Visit Mrs. Naus On 105th Birthday

The receipt of greeting cards, a birthday dinner and most likely a visit from her $1-year-old son in Springfield, marks the 105th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Mary Naus of Forest, today.

At the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Stanton King of Forest, with whom she makes her home, the celebrant will have a birthday dinner including chicken and a birthday cake, and most likely her son, Alva Naus of Springfield will be there, the family said. She is not particularly excited about the anniversary and is inclined to think "she isn't that old."

Yesterday's mail brought a great many birthday cards and more were expected with the arrival of the postman today. The celebration of the anniversary was planned and no guests other than members of the family were expected, it was said, although [illegible] know of the birthday [illegible]

Sporadic Work Stoppages Hit Mining Fields

78,000 Already Out In Advance of Wednesday Time Set by Lewis.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 19—Sporadic work stoppages in the soft coal fields spread today to a few more mines in the two biggest producing states, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The number of idle in the industry resulting from walkouts yesterday and today was estimated at 78,000 out of the nation's 400,000 soft coal miners.

This represented an increase of about 40,000 from yesterday among the idle diggers who walked out in advance of the contract-expiration deadline of Wednesday midnight, set by John L. Lewis, president of the AFL-United Mine Workers.

Among the mines closed today were two captive pits of the U. S. Steel Corporation. A company spokesman reported these were the Bridgeport mine, near Brownsville, Pa., with more than 800 workers, and the Hazel mine at Canonsburg, Pa., with 111 workers.

Some unionists predicted a complete shutdown would occur Thursday if the miners follow their traditional "no contract no work contention.

Even as the shaggy mine chieftain faced a possible jail sentence if he disobeyed a court order designed to prevent a walkout, it appeared the miners would follow their time-honored maxim, "no contract—no work."

Illinois Hardest Hit

Illinois was hardest hit by the unscheduled walkouts with 17,000 miners idle; Pennsylvania, the No. 2 coal producing state had 10,000 men out; Alabama 18,000; Indiana 6,520 and West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia, 14,800.

"We'll see you in five weeks," was the word of miners at the Montour 10 at Library, Pa., as they filed out of an afternoon shift yesterday.

James Caspar, a track layer, at the Westland, Pa., mine, summed up the miners' reaction to the strike injunction with:

"They can't do anything to a man for not coming to work when he doesn't want to. Not in this country, they can't."

Lewis' grip on the coal diggers was illustrated at the Westland mine Monday when 600 miners reported as usual. But as the men drew their lamps, the query rippled through the crowd:

"Are you or aren't you for Lewis?"

The men turned in their lamps, poured the water from their pails and went home.

Prepared for Pinch

Coal-using industries were preparing for the pinch if a protracted walkout takes place.

The Bethlehem Steel Co. said a "radical reduction in operations" would result if a strike were extended into next wek.

At Wheeling, W. Va., the Wheeling Steel Corp., said it

DEATH SENTENCES OF TWO GI'S SET ASIDE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—The war department announced today that President Truman had set aside the death sentences of two army privates, Frank R. Wallrath and Lemas Woods Jr.

Wallrath, 22-year-old paratrooper of Long Island City, New York, had been sentenced to death by a court martial for "desertion in the face of the enemy" during an attack by the 11th Airborne Division on Nichols Field, Luzon, in February 1945.

In a letter to his mother last August, Wallrath said:

"I didn't desert my outfit because I was a coward, but because 22 of my pals had been killed in action. I couldn't go on serving in the same company. I went to another company and served there."

The president commuted Wallrath's death sentence to dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of pay and allowances and confinement at hard labor for ten years. The dishonorable discharge provision was suspended until after his release from confinement.

Woods, a Detroit man, was accused of shooting and killing a Filipino while in the Philippines. The President disapproved the court martial death sentence and authorized a rehearing before another court martial to be appointed later.

PLAYS SILENT HAND WITH 48 HOURS TO GO

Gives No Indication of Reaction to Restraining Order; Could Be Jailed.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—With less than 48 hours to go, John L. Lewis played a silent hand today on the question of obeying a federal court order against another strike heralded to begin at midnight Wednesday.

Disobedience could land the United Mine Workers' chief in jail—indefinitely—for contempt of court.

Already more than 78,000 soft coal diggers have laid down their tools in seven states, and predictions of widespread industrial paralysis were heard on all sides.

Vacationing in Key West, Fla., President Truman kept in touch with the crisis and emphasized that he is determined to "fight this one to a finish," as an aide expressed it.

Asked if troops might be sent to the mines, Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross replied: "I don't know."

Truman Studies Issue

Ross said, however, that "the President is aware of everything that is being done, and everything that is being done is in accordance with his instructions."

Ross disclosed that Mr. Truman specifically instructed Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug to obtain yesterday's federal court order restraining Lewis until Nov. 27 from "coercing, instigating, inducing or encouraging" the miners to strike—either directly or indirectly—or otherwise to breach his contract with the government.

The court order, signed by Judge Alan T. Goldsborough, in effect calls upon Lewis and his 400,000 miners to keep the pits operating for at least eight more days. Then, a week from tomorrow, a hearing will be held to determine whether an injunction shall be issued outlawing any strike as long as the government operates the mines.

Attorney General Clark signaled his strategy when applying for the order for Krug. He cited the famous case of Eugene V. Debs, who led the Chicago Pullman strike in 1894 and was sent to jail for six months for contempt of court in violating an anti-strike injunction.

It is a question, however, whether Lewis could be held in contempt if the miners just quit without any word or counsel from him.

4 Developments Noted

Keyed with the swift-moving controversy were these developments:

1. George T. Christopher, president of Packard Motor Co., said in Atlanta that a coal strike would force almost immediate shutdown of the automobile industry—inevitably affecting tens of thousands of workers.

"The industry will start shutting down just as soon as they start striking," he said.

2. The government, to conserve dwindling coal supplies, ordered 25 per cent cut in passenger service provided by coal-burning locomotives, effective Sunday night. Freight restrictions are also under consideration.

3. The office of defense transportation disclosed that the nation's railroads now have only a 30-day supply of coal on hand. Some have as little as a 10-day supply.

4. In Richmond, Gov. William H. Tuck of Virginia pledged full police protection to any coal miners wishing to continue work under the U. S. government.

Lewis May Go to Court

Labor attorneys not connected with the case said in Washington they expected Lewis to go into court today or tomorrow at the latest.

These lawyers said Lewis would probably challenge Judge Goldsborough's restraining order as a violation of the Norris-LaGuardia act, which outlaws use of the injunction to prevent strikes.

The government, however, contends that the Norris-LaGuardia act does not apply in the present controversy because "the sovereign"—the government—"can at no time be held to be engaged in a labor dispute with private persons."

Lewis went into conference with his attorney immediately after two deputy U. S. marshals served the restraining order on him at 2:15 p. m. yesterday.

The coal operators, who lost control of the mines when the government seized the pits to end last spring's 59-day strike, watched the government's head-on [illegible] from the sidelines.

"Jimmy" Walker, Prohibition Era N. Y. Mayor, Dies at 65

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—James J (Jimmy) Walker, mayor of New York City during the glittering days of the prohibition era, the Wall Street boom and night club parlor, is dead at 65.

Death came painlessly last night to the debonair, slender, little man with the rapier wit, who had come to epitomize New York sophistication of the get-rich-quick years before the depression.

He never awakened from the coma into which he lapsed shortly after being taken to doctor hospital early Sunday suffering from a brain clot. The last rites of the Catholic church were administered soon after his admittance to the hospital.

Walker, mayor from 1926 to 1932 and last link between the plush and gilt New York of Tammany boy b sket- and torchlight parades, and the modern metropolis, had been in ill health for the last two weeks, complaining of severe headaches.

Ordered To Bed

On Saturday, his physician ordered him to bed and the following day he was removed to the hospital where he remained under an oxygen mask much of the time.

At his bedside when he died were his sister, Mrs. Nan Burke, her two sons, Luke and Paul, and another nephew, William Walker, Jr. Walker's two adopted children, James J. Jr., 10, and Mary Ann, 11, were at the Burke apartment.

Funeral services will be at St. Patrick's cathedral Thursday morning.

Walker's quick and nimble tongue gave rise to many bon mots that were widely repeated throughout the city.

Broke Up Speech

He once interrupted a long political speech on the need for subways by saying "For digging subways, sir, you need a pickax, not a tooth."

On another occasion he laughed a book censorship bill out of the state assembly with a quip "No girl was ever ruined by a book."

He had a habit of arriving late for appointments. He was reported to have kept President Coolidge waiting 40 minutes on a visit to Washington in 1928.

In 1909 the younger Walker was named to replace his father in the state assembly, where he became the protege of another assemblyman—Alfred E. Smith.

Sponsored Legislation

During 15 years in the state legislature Walker sponsored considerable legislation of a liberal character, including bills providing for Sunday baseball and motion pictures. He fathered the Walker boxing law, which legalized boxing in the state.

Walker defeated Mayor John F. (Red Mike) Hylan for the Democratic mayoralty nomination in 1925 and was swept into office by a 439,123 margin over Frank D. Waterman, Republican nominee.

He was reelected in 1929 but cut short his tenure during the Seabury investigation, which accused him of malpractice in office and demanded his removal.

Resigned from Office

Walker went on trial for his political life before the then Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in August, 1932, and two weeks later resigned from office. He spent the next few years in Europe.

Samuel Seabury, who conducted the probe, later claimed his inquiries showed Walker's regime was "characterized by inefficiency, waste and corruption."

One of his favorite pastimes was knocking out tunes on a piano. One number he composed in his youth "Will you love me in December as you do in May," was popular for many years.

His marriage to Miss Allen ended in divorce in 1933, and Walker married actress Betty Compton at Cannes, France. His second marriage also ended in divorce seven years later. Miss Compton died in 1944.

SCALES AT STOCKYARDS GIVEN ACCURACY TEST

Made Under Supervision of Agriculture Dept. Official.

The stock scales at the Marion Union Stockyards, operated by the Producers Livestock Cooperative association, were tested last week weight tests, stockyards officials with 5,000 pounds of standard reported today.

The tests were conducted by Frank's Scale Service of Westlake, O., and were supervised by Clay W. Martin, district supervisor, packers and stockyards division, U. S. department of agriculture.

The scales at the Marion and other stockyards, operated under the supervision of the packers and stockyards division, are tested at least twice each year and must be maintained in accurate weighing condition.

Mr. Martin explained that the packers and stockyards division supervises the larger livestock markets not only to assure accurate weights but also to assure fair treatment to patrons, safety of shippers proceeds and proper accounting. The division also guards against unreasonably high market charges and promotes improved stockyard services and improved trade practices. The district office of the division is located at Cincinnati.

County Home Inmates Can Get Age Pension

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 19—Atty. Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins ruled yesterday that inmates of county homes were eligible for old age pensions providing they were otherwise qualified and paid the home some amount, however small, for their maintenance.

Jenkins also ruled that in making a pension award to a county home inmate the division for aid to the aged need not take into consideration the amount the institution sought to charge for maintenance of inmates. The amount, he said, must be determined on the basis of "reasonable subsistence compatible with health and well being."

The ruling went to state welfare director Frazier Reams.

ROOSEVELT STATUE MODEL. This is a model of the statue of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt which will be erected in Grosvenor Square, London. Sir William Reid-Dick, of the British Royal Academy, is the sculptor. There have been recommendations from other artists that the statue show the president in a sitting position. Funds were raised by popular subscription in London. (International.)

Church Holds First Of Anniversary Services

The first service of a series observing the fiftieth anniversary of dedication of St. Joseph's Evangelical and Reformed church at Waldo, was held at the church Sunday night. Rev. Henry A. Blum of Bucyrus, a former pastor, spoke, stressing as his theme, "The Christian Life."

Four other services will be held, including a special Thanksgiving service next Sunday night and three in December. Illustrated lectures and a Christmas musical program will be included. The services are open to the public, with former members and pastors of the church especially welcomed, Rev. H. N. Doerres, pastor, announced. Letters from former ministers who cannot be present will be read at the next service.

Special numbers were presented by Mrs. Wallace Beckel's class, "The Church in the Wildwood," and a selection by a quartet of sisters, Jane, Mary Lou and Louise Moyer and Mrs. Clara Moyer Wiseman. Mention was made of the attendance of Mrs. Mary Klingel who became a member of the church 50 years ago, and Anson Strine who was confirmed when the congregation still met near Norton, before building the church at Waldo.

War Brides No Longer To Sail on Army Ships

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 — Henceforth war brides coming to the United States from Britain must travel on regular liners.

The army has ended use of its transports for that purpose to save money, the war department said yesterday, but will continue to make all preliminary travel arrangements.

The announcement said 38,658 brides have been transported from Europe with 12,861 children. A total of 5,302 brides and 2,624 children have been brought from the Pacific theater.

B. AND O. PRESIDENT AND ALL OFFICERS REELECTED

Executive Committee, Board of Directors Retain Posts.

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19—Roy B. White, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, the entire executive committee and the board of directors were reelected yesterday at the 120th annual meeting of the directors and stockholders.

Reporting to the stockholders, White said the road had acquired 51 new locomotives and 2,541 freight cars this year, and attributed recent car shortages to strikes in the steel and coal industries and to the five-day work week.

If the work week of industry could be increased by just one day, so far as the handling of freight cars is concerned, it would increase the car supply of the country by 114,000 units, he said.

White said the seven per cent freight-rate increase granted by the interstate commerce commission last April was "totally inadequate" and that the railroads planned to continue their plea for the original request of 25 per cent.

"Were it not for a tax carry-back credit of about $19,000,000 which the B. and O. will use this year, it would be faced with a deficit of about $15,000,000," he said.

Feathers of the wild turkey were used by prehistoric Pueblo Indians of New Mexico for ceremonial purposes.

Price of Caustic Soda Raised for Next Year

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—Solvay Sales Corp. announced yesterday prices of caustic soda and soda ash had been advanced for 1947 delivery.

The subsidiary of Allied Chemical and Dye Corp. is the country's largest producer of the alkalis, which are used in the glass, soap, cleaning, paper and plum and textile industries. Soda ash shortages have curtailed glass production in some instances.

Soda ash prices were advanced an average of 20 cents a hundred pounds to $1 a hundred pounds for carload lots of light bulk soda ash, and to $1.02 for dense soda ash.

Caustic soda prices went up an average of 10 cents a hundred pounds to $2.50 for 76 per cent caustic soda in drums, to $2.90 for flake and ground caustic, and $2 for liquor chlorine in tank cars.

What Happened to General Store? Ask Boyle

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

...YORK, Nov. 17 — The ...latest popular mysteries ...erm America are: What ...to vaudeville, Justice ...and the old-fashioned ...s country general store?

Hal Boyle

...the ...vaude- ...a very ...secret. ...jest ...Milton ...pol- ...ine us- ...Miller ...with an ...twist ...the ...pork ...rou- ...night club contracts at ...week or a lousy worse. ...for Justice Crater? I ...he stepped into a ...taxi after a comforta- ...some years ago and rode ...limbo with the meter ...ng. A lot of people with ...shiny crystal balls have ...ries, but nobody yet, in- ...New York's finest, has ...the corpus delicti—it ...one.

...an claim to have solved what happened to the country general store, the forum of the common people, the conversation foundation fountain where they settled the world's woes, underwrote the local statesman's errors, bet on the neighborhood fastest ploy-puller, and charted the fair, fair future.

They took the old country general store and moved in to the city.

They called it a "bar" and made it co-educational.

Marked With Neon Sign

They took it off the crossroads and put it on a side street and marked it with a mortgaged neon sign.

They put in a mirror where they used to stock the calico. In the center of the mirror they stuck a sign: "In God we trust—all others cash." And if they were real up-to-date somebody from the management would scrawl on the inner consolation room: "Kilroy Was Here."

They moved out the snuff and the chaw tobacco plug and installed in their place a box full of two-bit cigars, and cork-tipped cigarettes on the bosom of a girl who was killing time before Helen Hayes forsook the theater.

Made It 90 Proof

They trundled out the cider jugs, too, and stuck in a lot of fancy colored bottles—guaranteed 90 proof if you don't count the water.

The proprietor quit being an unofficial justice of the peace and became a smooth diplomat and learned a couple of French parases. He burned up the old cash drawer and bought a shiny new cash register. He kept close to it. Nobody played its music but himself.

He quit calling in his friends to help settle the arguments. He bought a baseball bat.

People didn't hear any more about the corn wilting "in the north 40 acres." They listened to the sleek chic secretary say, "Boys you know my hair doesn't look nice—I had to put the iron to it."

And then four hours later they had to play the match game to see who would have to call a cab to get her home.

The Squire Is Out

Nobody talked any more about how "the squire" was squeezing the interest rates. Everybody became a "Fascist trying to corrupt the common people" or a "communist trying to enlist support among the frightened moneybags to get the money to destroy them."

A plain old-fashioned Republican or a diehard old Democrat was as behind the times as sulphur and molasses, as lonesome as the pioneer mother at a birth control meeting.

And the big pot-bellied stove that everybody gathered around? They turned it into a long mahogany bar with a foot rail that gave a man something to brace against but didn't keep him warm.

Yep, the general store moved to town. You may miss the crackers, fellows, but the cheese—its still there!

Lung Bleeding

BLEEDING from the lungs, or hemoptysis, is always a serious symptom and there are a number of conditions which may produce it. In one patient it may give warning of cancer, in another of lung abscess, and in a third, of a lung condition sometimes produced by heart failure.

Perhaps the most common cause of hemoptysis is tuberculosis. In fact, according to Dr. Herman J. Moersch of Rochester, Minnesota, bleeding from the lungs occurs in about one-third of all cases of pulmonary tuberculosis even before a diagnosis is made.

Another cause of hemoptysis is what is known as acute edema of the lung. This is a condition in which fluids collect in the lung. It causes such symptoms as shortness of breath, noisy breathing and the coughing up of thin, pink sputum. This condtion is treated by giving the patient oxygen, by giving injections of substances into a vein which stimulate the action of the kidneys and, sometimes, by removing blood from a vein. Of course, acute edema of the lung usually is produced by heart failure.

Still another cause of hemoptysis is what is known as pulmonary embolism. This is a condition in which a small bit of material, such as a blood clot, lodges in one of the blood vessels in the lung. It may be prevented by overcoming poor circulation in the veins and in the legs since often the blood clot is brought to the lung from one of the leg veins. Should an attack of pulmonary embolism occur, it is suggested that the patient be given at once an injection of papaverine and atropine contraction of the blood vessels into a vein. This helps to prevent in the lung.

The coughing up of bloody material is often one of the early symptoms of pneumonia and may be the first sign that a serious disorder is present. Nowadays pneumonia is successfully treated with penicillin, the sulfonamide drugs, oxygen and good nursing care.

Other causes of hemoptysis are lung abscess, bronchiectasis, a condition in which the bronchi or small tubes in the lung are stretched, and lung tumors. In some cases the exact cause cannot be determined and it is found that the least movement of the lung causes oozing of blood material from the lining membrane of the bronchi.

Because of the many causes of hemoptysis, when this symptom occurs, the best thing to do is to have the patient put into a hospital at once where he can be carefully studied and the cause found. Then the most effective treatment may be carried out.

It's a simple thing to take a bottle of milk off your doorstep in the early morning.

But to get it there—that's a job that is truly comparable with the maneuvering of an army!

To assemble, transport, test, pasteurize and bottle the right quantity of milk every day and deliver it to thousands of consumers is a major operation indeed—one that calls for the best brains of management, scientists, technicians and engineers behind the man who actually makes the delivery.

Your "milkman" today is a dozen trained men. If you could see the actual operation and sanitary precaution behind a quart of milk, you would probably wonder how so good a food can be brought to you so conveniently and safely at so low a cost.

One of the extra safeguards this dairy uses is the Sealright Hood. Sealed on the bottle at 500 degrees F., this paper closure provides water-proof, tamper-proof protection of the pouring lip of our bottle. It keeps it safe from contact with hands or other exposure all the way from dairy to you. And that is important—because every drop of milk in the bottle must pass over that pouring lip.

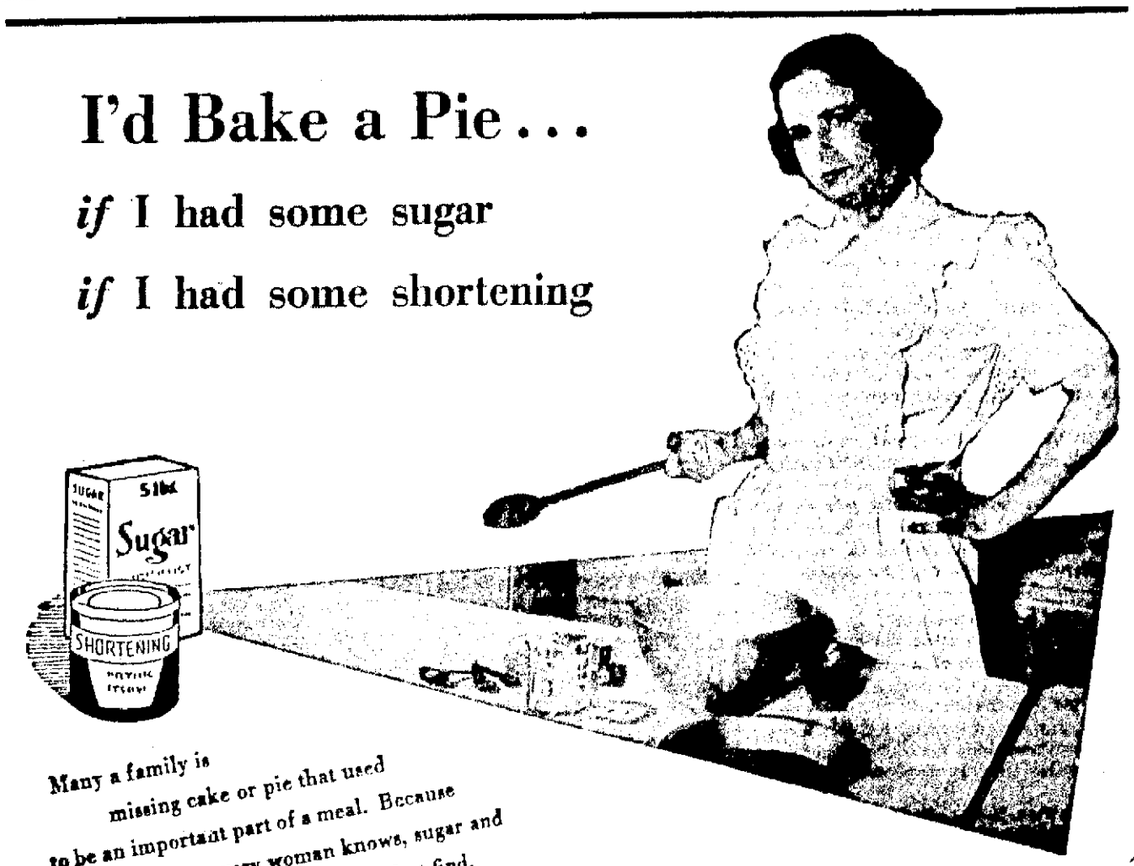
I'd Bake a Pie...
if I had some sugar
if I had some shortening



Many a family is missing cake or pie that used to be an important part of a meal. Because as every woman knows, sugar and shortening are hard to find.

We've had our troubles, too, finding all the supplies that we needed to meet a steadily growing demand for gas. There was just not enough pipe, and fittings and equipment to build extensions that we had planned for last summer . . . extensions that we will need this winter.

Our problem is not a shortage of gas itself. It's the lack of capacity to bring that gas from the production fields into your home.

GAS PIPE is hard to get, too!

This Has Been Done

To protect our present customers, we are accepting no more conversions to gas heating of homes where other fuels are available. And in this program, we have the whole-hearted support of heating contractors.

Our underground storage of gas is being hoarded against midwinter, and with the cooperation of users of gas in avoiding waste, this will be a reserve against serious scarcity later in the season.

Straws on a Camel's Back

A coal strike at the beginning of winter would be the last straw on an overloaded camel's back.

It wouldn't matter how many fine points of legality were involved in the events leading up to the strike. All that would matter, if the strike lasted more than a few days, would be the public inconvenience and hardship caused by one union executive's arbitrary power to shut off coal production at his own discretion.

The differences of opinion between John L. Lewis and coal operators and between him and the United States government would be inconsequential. They are only details of operation which neither the operators nor the government have been able to settle to the satisfaction of the czar of the union that controls the coal industry.

For years, Mr. Lewis has held a claim on public sympathy, in behalf of his mine workers. He has stressed the hardships and danger of their work. He has had no trouble proving their work was important: a few weeks of work stoppage in the mines proved that.

The result to date is that miners, once poorly-paid, have become one of the highly-paid occupational groups. Their wage status is a testimonial to collective bargaining, as conducted by Mr. Lewis and his predecessor, John Mitchell. But there is more to the welfare of miners than wages and working conditions.

There is their relationship to the mining industry and to the consumers of the coal they mine. They can price themselves out of their livelihood; thousands of them did it in the anthracite industry. They can bargain themselves out of public sympathy; they are on the verge of that danger now. They can ruin the coal industry as a basic element in private enterprise, since last spring it has had to be operated by government to keep it going, and now even the government may be unable to keep it going.

Miners can do these things?

The fact is miners do not want to do them, but they might be done by a few men acting in the name of miners. Nor are the operators blameless. They too have done things that were harmful to the welfare of their industry—things that showed they were either indifferent or contemptuous of public opinion.

These are details of the controversy in the mines. The main fact is that the controversy, having passed through many tense stages in the past, is now approaching the ultimate climax. A coal strike at the beginning of winter would be the last straw. It would tax public patience beyond the breaking point. And let there be no quibbling about the difference between a strike and a stoppage of work. The public knows a strike when it sees one. Refusal to work as a means of forcing compliance is a strike.

How Long Is a President?

FOR THE first time since the question was raised, the length of a presidential term has a good chance to be settled by legislative action in the 80th congress.

On all previous occasions, legislators were talking about something that might happen if a chief executive tried to perpetuate himself in office.

But this time legislators are talking about something that finally did happen. They are in a mood to lock the barn after the horse is stolen.

For obvious reasons, the party which was the minority when the theft occurred must propose the correction, but many Democrats will agree, if for no other reason than political expediency. In all probability, the next chief executive will be from the Republican party.

Franklin D. Roosevelt's record has been committed to history. The limitation of presidential tenure is no longer an issue to be discussed in terms of his personality, or claims of indispensability in a crisis.

Rather, it now is an issue to be discussed as it was discussed in the days of the republic's founding—as a means of preserving the republic. Thomas Jefferson advocated limited tenure. Andrew Jackson believed in it. So did Madison, Monroe, William H. Harrison, Buchanan, Johnson, Hayes, Garfield, Cleveland, McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt and Taft. The Democratic party supported limited tenure in two platforms, in 1896 and 1912. The Republican party rejected the third-term aspirations of Theodore Roosevelt and Ulysses S. Grant.

The time is ripe for a decision in the 80th congress before a future president has a chance to dream of doing what Franklin D. Roosevelt proved could be done in the absence of any law to the contrary. The two-term tradition has been smashed beyond repair. It must be replaced by legal limitation.

Elementary school attendance in the United States reached a peak of more than 23,000,000 in the early 1930's.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

20 Per Cent Tax Cut, Possibly More, Predicted.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—Sneering laughter among Democrats at the promise of a Republican congressional income tax cut of 20 percent and said it would be a good trick if they could do it. The stock market fell short of ecstacy also. The market was closed for the day, when Speaker-To-Be Martin promised it, but next day trading failed to react much and even when the steering committees adopted the program definitely, the market achieved no immediate impetus.

The fact is the tax cut is an economic necessity, and the Republicans will not only effect the promised 20 percent cut more. The only thing which will limit the cut is, receipts are diminishing from expectations today due to business losses. Ford, for instance, has announced a loss of $51.6 millions in nine months before tax rebate. Corporations pay taxes only on profits, and if there are none, there will be no tax income from that source, which means the receipts pot will be that much smaller, hindering a tax reduction.

But the Republican steerers agreed they could cut individuals as much as 20 percent anyway, and publicly announced that much, while privately hoping and planning to do something like that with the general tax structure.

Rather High.

A man earning $50 a week with one dependent, today pays $5 or 10 percent in withholding taxes before he gets his salary. This has nothing to do with social security, which runs his tax bill even higher. But it is too much. A 20 percent cut in the tax would lop $1 off and leave him paying $4 which is still rather high cost for a federal government.

The August Truman budget is $41.5 billions with expected receipts of $39.6 billions (leaving a deficit) but Senator Taft, who knows government finance thoroughly, is talking about a budget for next year (beginning next July 1) of about $30 billions, which would represent a cut of more than one-fourth. Taft has publicly listed about $6 billions of this year's appropriations which will not all recur next year, and these alone would seem to cut the prospective budget down to $35 billions before you even get into the possibilities of economies in government outlays including Army and Navy expense.

If business gets into production to a reasonably anticipated extent, Ford actually should make money in the next calendar year, certainly in the next government fiscal year which lags six months, and about which current budget talk is concerned.

Therefore while the Republicans have said nothing about it publicly, overall factors favor an even greater tax reduction accomplishment than they have mentioned—provided production can be restored.

Comparisons.

Now some authorities have criticized the Republican theory already of slashing a straight 20 percent across the individual income board, saying one class should receive more, or less. The truth is the flat cut is economically urgent today because the hipayers are the ones who are stalled. High spending is evident but not from income in the middle and top brackets. From a man earning say $10,000 a year, the government takes from his income on an average $2,347, which means that he works nearly three months a year solely for the government, giving all his income to it, and only nine months a year for himself—while the $50 a week man works a little more than five weeks a year for the federal government. An equally proportioned cut would give the hipayer far more than a 20 percent reduction.

The cut on the $50 a week income payer will give him $1 more a week to spend and put that much more money in circulation; the hipayer can put his into circulation, which will furnish employment and opportunities for others to make money (and pay taxes on their earnings.) Thus in all about $35 billions will be added to economic stimulus in money circulation, a tremendous favorable business factor especially when you consider the government during the war has largely been blowing it up in bombs and thus making it vanish in thin air. In short, an attempt is being made to return the tax structure to economic stimulation, where it has been an economic deterrent.

The effect upon labor's wages even in the unions will be the same as a 2 percent price cut or a two percent wage boost at a $50 a week wage level, because the individual who earns his money will have that much more of his earnings for himself.

Election Results Tell A Moving Story?

Rep. Wickersham of Oklahoma, beaten in his bid for reelection, has bought a Washington real estate office and will remain in the nation's capital.

He apparently anticipates booming business as defeated Democrats hang out the sign "Lost Our Lease—Must Vacate."

Nor will all the realty activity be confined to one party. Already Republicans are advertising: "Doghouse To Let."

Belatedly, Democratic congressmen are realizing their mistake. There is no provision in OPA legislation requiring 90 days' notice before political eviction.

It's a shame Democrats are no longer in power now that they have not only firsthand knowledge of the housing problem but also a real incentive to solve it.

Wickersham will doubtless do well in the real estate business. But why not really cater to his deposed colleagues by operating an employment agency in connection therewith?

Public Debt Policy

By RAYMOND MOLEY

THERE is only one thing as bad as loose talk about tax reduction before election. That is loose talk about tax reduction by the victors immediately after election. It is not clear that the predictions of various Republicans about a 20 per cent cut in individual income rates all mean the same thing. In some cases, the statements are qualified; in some cases they are not. The most dependable statements are those which express hope for a reduction if and after substantial savings are made and something is paid on the debt.

It requires no genius to see that material savings are possible and that, if Molotov means business about disarmament, very large savings are likely. An ex-Molotov budget would be a windfall for American taxpayers. The real issue is the balance between tax reduction and debt retirement. Until a long-term debt retirement policy is made, there should be no talk at all about tax reduction. And no one seems to know what part of the debt should be scheduled for yearly retirement.

Debt Problem

It would be economic insanity and ultimate political death for Republicans to ignore the tested principle that the time to pay off a debt is during a period of high income, especially in a period of inflation. If debt cannot be substantially reduced in such a period, it never can be reduced. There is some sense in using the debt as an economic balance wheel, cutting when times are good and paying less rapidly or not at all when times are bad. But now we are experiencing a genuinely inflated income, when great reductions should be in order.

There are economists who suggest a debt cut of $2 billion a year. This is an average cut. They say that the cut should be $1 billion in poor years; $2 billion in middling years and $3 billion in good years. With the debt now over $250 billion, that would mean over a century to pay for this war and for the New Deal. But to strike even such an average as this, we should aim at a $3-4 billion debt cut in the forthcoming fiscal year.

Mellon's Record

Even this reduction is relatively small, compared with what happened under Secretary Andrew Mellon. He came into office, in 1921, with a debt of about $24 billion. From June, 1921, to June, 1930, a period of nine years, the debt was reduced to something over $16 billion. That averaged something less than a billion a year on a debt of less than a tenth of the present figure. And those years were extraordinarily prosperous.

The fact that Republicans face is that the cost of our revised attitude toward Russia has already thrown the calculations of President Truman's 1946 budget message entirely out of line. He forecast a budget of must less than $30 billion as a peacetime level after this year of transition. But now our military preparations have raised the figure for the next fiscal year so high that even with all the optimistic proposed cuts suggested by Senator Robert Taft and Congressman Taber, the remainder will be over $30 billion. To anticipate a tax cut of $3-4 billion would wipe out any hope of debt reduction. It would, in effect, probably mean borrowing more money to pay for the tax cut.

The pity of these premature Republican suggestions is that even political considerations do not require them. These men are in power now by a substantial majority. They don't need to begin promising for a long time. Their performance, not their 1946 promises will determine their fate. And performance should begin after a more careful appraisal of the facts than they seem to have made.

CLAUS FOR ALARM

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Thursday, Nov. 19, 1936.

The state conservation division placed an estimate of $7,250,000 on the 1936 hunting season. It was figured that hunters would spend $3,300,000 for equipment, incidentals and transportation, and bag game worth $3,950,000 before the last shot of the season was fired.

H. E. Kearns, Richwood grocer, narrowly escaped death when his automobile crashed into a standing freight train at the Pennsylvania crossing on the Marion-Prospect road. A few seconds after he leaped from his car, a second freight train crossed the road and dragged the car nearly 100 feet.

Mrs. James A. Deal and Mrs. Margaret Kyle were guests at a meeting of Le Jeudi bridge club at the home of Mrs. Harold Carroll on South Grand avenue.

Miss Bertha Gracely, Miss Amanda Haberman and Mrs. Ferd Hecker, charter members, were present when the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Prospect Street M. E. church celebrated its 50th anniversary with a dinner at the church. Miss Gracely baked the anniversary cake.

Mrs. C. R. Beerbower was elected teacher at a meeting of the Emma Berger Bible class of Calvary Evangelical church at the home of Mrs. John Rutn on Bain avenue.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Friday, Nov. 19, 1926.

It was reported that H. E. Hill, Marion county representative to the state legislature, would be one of the leading candidates for speaker at the next session.

Marion banks reported Christmas savings accounts totaling approximately $124,000 would be distributed early in December.

Records showed that more real estate transfers had been registered in the last three months than in any similar period during the preceding four years. Real estate dealers said this was regarded as a sign of business pick-up.

Men prominent in the order of Elks were here from all sections of Ohio to attend an afternoon and night meeting of Marion lodge arranged in honor of Charles L. Justice, president of the State Elks association.

Roy H. Waddell was elected worshipful master of Marion Lodge of Masons.

Contract with Lewis Worthless

By WALTER LIPPMANN

JUST what does Mr. John L. Lewis mean by a contract? He has taught miners not to work without a contract. When he wants them to strike, he does not tell them to strike. He tells them there is no contract, and they stop working. So it is necessary to find out what is Mr. Lewis's idea of a contract.

Less than six months ago he signed a document on behalf of the United Mine Workers of America. That piece of paper opens with the statement that "this agreement covers for the period of government possession the terms and conditions of employment in respect to all mines in government possession." The mines are in government possession, and Mr. Lewis has instigated a strike for the purpose of altering the agreement which he signed on May 29.

By what right? Mr. Lewis contends that section 15 of an earlier agreement—made April 15, 1945—is part of the present contract, and that section 15 gives him the right to demand a new agreement by giving 10 days' notice that he wants a new agreement, to declare, if he does not get the new agreement he wants within 15 days, that there is no "contract," his miners may strike in order to compel the United States government to give him a new "contract."

Is 30 Days to Lewis

Thus a contract with Mr. Lewis may state that it is "for the period of government possession," but, as he understands it, it is nevertheless good only for 30 days. He feels morally and legally bound for only 30 days at a time. To have a "contract" with Mr. John L. Lewis is never to know when he will choose to demand a new contract, and to live with the threat of a coal strike hanging over you at the end of any 30-day period.

That, surely, is not much of a contract. For "the terms and conditions of employment," remain in force only at his pleasure.

Moreover, Mr. Lewis has asserted boldly and unashamedly in his letter to Secretary Krug, that he, John L. Lewis, has the final say as to what the contract means. The contract means what he says it means, no more, no less, the attorney general to the contrary notwithstanding. The United States government, which is the other party to the contract, has in his view no right to have its view of the contract impartially construed. On the law of the contract, Mr. Lewis says Mr. Lewis may overrule the attorney general.

Was there ever such a brazen mockery of a contract? Was there ever a contract which gave one of the parties the right to abrogate it when he chose, and to interpret it as he saw fit? As long as this is what Mr. Lewis means by a contract, to sign a contract with him is to walk into a trap. The contract does not bind him for more than 30 days. Yet those who sign with him are bound, on penalty of a shut-down of the mines, to negotiate a new agreement whenever he thinks he can get the better of them.

Thus under the form of a contract, with the sanctimonious pretence, that he respects contracts, he has acquired a naked right to exercise the power to coerce. He has used the idea of a contract to free himself of any contractual obligation to limit his power to strike. A contract with John L. Lewis has become a contract not to have a contract which binds John L. Lewis.

The strike which he has now instigated is not only a repudiation of the specific Lewis-Krug contract, but of the very principles of any contract. If he is able to gain his point here, he will have destroyed the foundation of all labor contracts. For he will have established the principle that contracts may be interpreted finally and without appeal by one of the parties, and that contracts do not bind any one for more than a few weeks.

Right To Defy

He will have established his right to defy the statutes of the United States—in this instance, the Smith-Conally act. Thus the triumph of John L. Lewis in this case would place him, and the labor leaders who copied him, above the law, and beyond the reach of contractual obligations.

The offer which the government has made to him is really a greater concession than the public interest or his behavior justify. The government has asked him only to fulfill his contract for another 60 days, and has proposed to let him reopen it, and to let him strike to compel a new agreement. The government would be well within its legal and moral rights if it held him to the Krug-Lewis contract indefinitely until this country and the world are in shape to bear the costs of a coal strike. For the contract and the federal statutes bind him and could be enforced to avert the disaster of a coal strike this winter.

But the government is not insisting on its undoubted rights. It is insisting only that he refrain from striking for 60 days, while a new agreement is negotiated. Less than that the government could not ask. More than that it could not concede. If it asked less, and conceded more, the government would declare itself bankrupt, its contracts worthless, its laws meaningless, the authority of government as contemptible, as Mr. John L. Lewis is contemptuous of the authority of government.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Letters for Special Delivery.

THE GENERAL ELECTRIC CORPORATION
Gentlemen:

Must you make me feel depressed, sorry and apprehensive? Is it fair for you to go out of your way to spread gloom and dislike? Can't you do something about that man [illegible] J. Snaefer, one of your head scientists?

* * *

Nothing has saddened us so much in years as reading the other morning—"General Electric Makes Real Snowflakes." And the success of V. J. Snaefer finds way to produce genuine crystals. We are crying still.

* * *

If there was one thing that we thought the world would be able to retain in the time-honored form, with no substitutes or imitations, was the snowflake. I was always a warm lover of snowflakes. I might say I loved them as a boy-hood up. They were beautiful beyond words, something too lovely to be dreamed of as the work of man. I thought of God when I looked out on a moonlight night and saw the snowflakes drifting down like so many jewels. And so do most people.

* * *

Oh, sometimes I thought, too, of Heaven, the skies, the glamorous mysteries of nature, and my thoughts wandered to sleigh bells, double-rippers and a white Christmas. But you can be sure of something: I never thought of the General Electric Corporation. I never, in my life, looked at a snowflake and thought of Schenectady, N. Y.

* * *

Tell me it ain't so, Owen Young! Just tell me you have just made a plastic flake, a mere substitute, Mr. Snaefer! Everything in this troubled world has been altered, shaken up, fouled up and monkeyed with. The snowflake was about the one thing left untouched. It has stood out in the original form, with a glamour all its own and a mystery untampered with. Who wants to see a child look out the window at the crystals from fairyland on a winter morning and exclaim, "Oh, mumsy! Look what General Electric is doing!"

* * *

Who wants to hear anybody reciting Whittier—

The snow had begun in the gloaming
And busily all the night
Had been heaping field and highway
With Schenectady products white . . .

* * *

Repudiate the whole thing, General Electric. Or there will be trouble. This country will never accept without a fight the prospect of coasting down hill on snow factory.

* * *

King George went before Parliament the other day and read a message for the socialization of railroads and power companies in England. Pausing, we imagine, for little outbursts of "Is this me talking?"

* * *

And we think that the King, returning to Buckingham, threw himself on a divan and exclaimed to the Queen, "My speech was a great one, I guess, and how it depressed me!"

* * *

Two more delegates to the United Nations have been arrested for speeding. They are in a terrific hurry to get where everything is moving in slow motion.

Constant Reader

By TRUMAN TWILL

DEAR EDITOR: It has been some time since I took pen in hand to tell you how to run our newspaper, but there has been no lack of interest on my part. It was only because I kept me so mixed up all the time I didn't know where to start.

Furthermore, I have had to take my pen in hand from time to time to tell the radio people about their business, and I expect you have noticed we listeners have been giving them the scare of their lives. It sure keeps a citizen of this country busy trying to keep abreast of his responsibilities for free speech and free press. But the way I look at it nothing is more important. This is public business. Eiether we keep plugging away at you fellows, or you will get the idea we are satisfied and start letting us enough alone.

I have no illusions that you are grateful for the time and effort we spend—any more than a politician, for instance, is grateful for the constituents who keep nagging at him—and I consider it my patriotic duty to write to you from time to time and let you know that I always cancel my subscription. Now that you are beginning for subscribers again, the old zip returns to the threat. For a while, you had me over a barrel. You didn't care whether I cancelled or not, because you had a waiting list.

To get down to brass tacks, dear sir—you have been trying my patience to the breaking point with crime stories. I do not [illegible] ordinary crime is news and never did. If there is a man biting a dog, how do you make news out of the fact dogs keep biting dogs year in and year out?

Mind you, I am not saying there is no news involved in unusual crimes, such as a big bank robbery or the fellow who took advantage of the complicated bookkeeping of that company in Brooklyn to pry loose a million dollars before he got caught. I am talking about the ordinary run of ordinary crime—the humdrum stuff.

When you print that, it makes me sick. There are so many worthwhile things people could be reading instead that your neck should be red all the way up and back down to your eyebrows. It is a lazy way to fill a newspaper. And don't tell me that people read it. I know they do. I also know a lot of other guff people would read if you printed it—and I'll bet you get carbon copies of some of it in your desk. I hate but if by some chance of fate I could trade places with you I wouldn't print it. Printing what people will read is no test of what to put in a newspaper. People will read advertising slogans on breakfast food boxes.

If you are capable of improvement, which I have doubted for most of my lifetime, I like to think there might come a day when our newspaper would put crime in its place, which mostly would be in small type in a remote corner. Those who want to know who ran afoul of the law could find out and the rest of us would have something worthwhile. There is no news in most crime. There is only a lot of stuff morbid people will read if you give it to them. That's all I have to say at this time—but I'll have more. You can bet on that.

Rugs of Paper

One of the possibilities of the future, when supplies of common articles return to normal, is the use of paper rugs. The secret, of course, is a flexible plastic. Gay colors, durability, waterproofness, stay-putness, and ease of cleaning are mentioned as other advantages. The material may have other uses, including coverings for furniture.—O. S. U. MARKET RECORDS ULTIMATE LOSSES

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 — An early selective recovery attempt failed to impress buyers in today's stock market and losses of fractions to more than 2 points ultimately were spread over most departments.

From the start dealings remained relatively sluggish. Leading rails and industrials bore the brunt of further meager offerings. Few signs of revival were in evidence near the fourth hour.

Pessimism over labor questions, particularly the coal mine crisis, received the principal blame for bearish operations.

American Telephone extended its retreat to another new 1946 low. In the declining section were Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Southern Railway, U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, Goodrich, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Consolidated Edison, Phelps Dodge, American Can, Dow Chemical, Du Pont and International Harvester.

Commodities were hesitant and bonds were narrow.

Among curb laggards were American Republics, Core Inc., St. Regis Paper and Electric Bond and Share. Resistance was shown by Technicolor and Quaker Oats.

Holders of rubber company issues derived a certain amount of comfort from compilations indicating that passenger tire output in September reached 5,300,000 units, an expansion of 1.35 per cent over August. Shipments to car owners for replacement were raised by 200,000 tires to 4,300,000 in September.

Truman Quarterbacking March Against Lewis

By The Associated Press

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 19—President Truman called the plays from this vacation retreat today as the government opened an all-out offensive against John L. Lewis.

The President threw off the wraps yesterday after ordering Interior Secretary J. A. Krug to institute injunction proceedings against the president of the United Mine Workers.

His press secretary, Charles G. Ross, told a news conference at this naval submarine base:

"Every step being taken is being taken in accordance with the President's instructions."

Lewis has served notice upon Krug of cancellation of the work contract of his United Mine Workers with the government effective Wednesday.

CELEBRATING LIMA STUDENTS RETURN

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., Nov. 19—Students who left classrooms at Lima Central high school yesterday for an unofficial half-holiday to celebrate their football team's first undefeated season were back today prepared to "take their medicine."

Some 500 pupils declared themselves the holiday which school officials had refused but when they learned from Principal H. W. Leach that they would be penalized, about 200 held a mass meeting at the school last night in the hope of getting the penalties softened. The school enrollment is 1,600.

Football Coach Seraph Pope told the mass meeting that celebrants should return to classes and "take their medicine." He was the only school official at the gathering.

Leach said those who walked out would be treated the same as pupils who skipped school. That meant staying after school several afternoons and being marked with the lowest passing grad for the day in the classes missed, he explained.

Leach said school officials felt a special assembly Monday morning to pay tribute to the team for its ten victories was adequate celebration without a half-holiday.

BRITAIN'S HIGHEST CIVIL HONOR AWARDED TO TWO

French Woman and Belgian Doctor Get George Cross.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 19 — King George VI presented the United Kingdom's highest civilian award, the George Cross, today to a French woman, Mrs. Odette Sansom, and a Belgian doctor, Albert Guerisse, for heroic services with the underground behind the German lines in the war.

Mrs. Sansom refused despite Gestapo torture to divulge the name of her British commanding officer. She said "the price I paid was very small for such an honor and such a reward."

The price she paid was having her toenails pulled out and her back branded with hot irons during months of Gestapo imprisonment.

With her at the investiture was Capt. Peter Churchill, the commanding officer whose life she saved by denying his identity and representing him as her husband. They are to become actual man and wife as soon as her marriage to another Englishman is dissolved.

Youth Locked In Armory As Joke, Held 23 Hours

Freeman Leroy Smith Jr., 18, of Toledo avenue, was back home Monday afternoon after spending 23 hours locked in a dressing room at the Ohio State Guard armory as the result of a practical joke.

He had been reported to police by his parents as missing for him home Sunday night. They said they thought he might have joined the Navy.

Smith, a member of Co. M, had been playing basketball with other members of the company Sunday afternoon. When he went into a room to dress he was locked in by one of his associates as a joke, according to an account of the incident given The Star, and was unable to attract attention until Monday at 3 p. m. Borden Dairy workers nearby heard him and called Mrs Carl F. Pollock of 434 West Church street, wife of the armory caretaker, who let him out.

The company holds drill Monday night and he would have been found then had he been unable to attract attention.

Aside from hunger he suffered no ill effects, it was reported today.

BILBO FACES SECOND CONGRESSIONAL QUIZ

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—Senator Bilbo (D-Miss) already under scrutiny by one senate committee for his utterances and tactics in last summers Mississippi primary, faces a new investigation tomorrow by another.

The inquiry, authorized late yesterday by the senate war investigating committee, will be concerned solely with Bilbo's relations with a group of war contractors who built a number of southern air fields for the Army.

The other investigation, which will be conducted by the special campaign investigating committee in Mississippi beginning Dec. 2, will go into sworn charges that Bilbo tried to prevent Negroes from voting in the primary.

OPA BOSS REPORTED FIGHTING RENT RAISE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 — A high OPA official as outstanding Paul Porter had taken a strong stand against any general rent ceiling increase at this time or any "basic change" in present standards for permitting rent adjustments.

This official said the price administrator was "strongly opposed" to any such changes and had informed representatives of the real estate business that OPA intended to hold the present rent line.

Porter advised the business spokesmen further, the official said, that any major changes would have to be made by congress.

At the same time, however, it was disclosed that OPA was considering a plan to take rent ceilings off transient hotel rooms and might act "very soon" if a workable definition of transient rooms could be established. Any such definition, this informant said, must provide for retention of rent ceilings on rooms held by permanent hotel guests.

Last of 5 Who Sued Radium Company Dies

By The Associated Press

ORANGE N. J., Nov. 19—The funeral of Mrs. Albina Maggia Larice, 52, last of five women who sued the United States Radium Corp. for $1,250,000 nearly a quarter of a century ago charging they contracted radium poisoning in the Orange plant, will be held tomorrow.

Essex County Medical Examiner Harrison S. Martland, who established radium poisoning as an occupational disease through the Orange cases, yesterday said his last examination of Mrs. Larice in 1939 showed 2.3 microgram of radium in her body. Martland estimated about 35 persons formerly employed in the Orange plant, since shut down, had died.

Mrs. Larice died Sunday.

MAJOR EASTERN OHIO MINE CLOSES DOWN

By The Associated Press

BELLAIRE, O., Nov. 19—One major mine in the eastern Ohio coal fields shut down today and only two pits were reported operating in the Hocking valley area.

Rail and River Coal Co. officials said their No. 3 mine at nearby Big Run was forced to close after only a fourth of morning shift workers reported. The pit employs about 700.

The company said its No. 6 mine still was working and Hanna Coal Co. spokesmen said their survey showed major pits operating throughout eastern and southeastern Ohio.

They said they had no information whether Ohio miners in that area would follow the example of workers in pits elsewhere and walk out during United Mine Workers' contract differences with the federal government which now operates the mines.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19—Charles Henn Jr., and his British wife had a problem today—finding a new home for a family expecting quadruplets.

"We haven't had a chance to figure out what we'll do," said Henn, a 28-year-old bookbinder, after his wife told him of her physician's forecast of quads, expected in February. X-rays have shown the four-some to be on its way.

The Henns and their three-year-son now live at the home of the husband's parents, where three of Henn's brothers and a sister also reside. Henn said his wife, in the United States less than a year, recently bought furniture for three rooms, hoping to "set up our own home."

"Mrs. America" Rejects Glamor, Chooses Kitchen

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 19—Mrs. Janice Pollock today preferred the familiar glimmer of the kitchen range to the tinseled glamor of the "Mrs. America of 1946" title bestowed upon her last week.

The pretty 24-year-old housewife and mother of four won the title in a contest at Jackson, Miss., last Wednesday, but definitely gave up the honor and an accompanying $2,500 prize yesterday because acceptance would have required a 20 weeks' tour of the country.

Her place as "Mrs. America" was taken by Mrs. Freddie Acker of Anderson, S. C., who had finished second.

"It was far more important to stay here and be a mother to the children than any amount of glory or money from the contest," Mrs. Pollock said.

Her husband, Mark Pollock, said his wife telephoned that message to Burt Titcomb, contest manager at Jackson.

Shortly after Mrs. Pollock won the contest she announced she would not accept the title because it would be difficult making a nationwide tour with her four children, Susan, 6; Tommy, 5; Mark, 2, and Bobby 10 months.

Titcomb announced last night that Mrs. Acker would be called back to Jackson, officially crowned and given the title's benefits.

Previously, Mrs. Acker, who has one child, told reporters she would gladly accept the title.

FARM PRICES

price was $59.67. Ceiling was $26.18.

Choice pork loins weighing 8 to 10 pounds yesterday sold for $52.00 to $55.00 a hundredweight, compared with $56.58 after decontrol and a ceiling of $31.88.

5. A record-breaking corn crop, forcing prices lower, has produced a corn-hog ratio at Chicago of 15.5 to 1, meaning that the price of 100 pounds of live hog, is equal to the price of 15.8 bushels of corn. Last year at this time the hog price equaled only 12.9 bushels of corn.

6. Holdings of meat in cold storage have increased. "Though normal movement for meat (in October) is out-of-storage," the agriculture department said, "stocks of stored meat increased during October by 24,000,000 pounds." This still left stocks around half of normal for Nov. 1.

Straws on a Camel's Back

A coal strike at the beginning of winter may be the last straw on an overburdened camel's back.

It wouldn't matter how many technicalities or legality were involved in the events leading to the strike. All that would matter if it lasted more than a few days, would be public inconvenience and hardship. The union executive's arbitrary power to close coal producton at his own discretion.

The differences of opinion between John L. Lewis and coal operators and between the United States government and them are inconsequential. They are only details on which neither the operators nor the government have been able to settle to the satisfaction of the czar of the union that controls the miners.

For years, Mr. Lewis has had the sympathy, public sympathy, in behalf of the miners. He has stressed the hardships connected with their work. He has had no quarrel with the fact that work was important; and he has condemned stoppage in the mines provided for.

The result to date is that the miners, who have paid, have become one of the highest paid occupational groups. Their wages are monumental to collective bargaining, according to Mr. Lewis and his predecessors. But there is more to the story than high wages and working conditions.

There is their relation to the rest of the industry and to the consumer. The consumer is the mine. They can price the miner out of his livelihood; thousands of miners have in the anthracite industry. They have been pushed out of public sympathy by the fear of that danger now. The miners and the industry as a basic source of enterprise; since last spring the industry has been subsidized by government to the tune of $398 million dollars. And even the government is now talking about taking away the miners' subsidy.

Miners can do the country a disservice. The fact is miners have been underpaid, but they might be overpaid. They might be in the name of making their cause blameless. They could be doing something harmful to the welfare of the country that showed their contempt for the public.

These are details that the miners, the miners, the mines. The main issue, the miners having passed the point of no return in the past, is now apparently the stoppage. A coal strike at this time would be the last straw on an overburdened camel's back. Beyond the breaking point — quibbling about the miners' wages and a stoppage of work. The strike when it comes will be by means of force.

Mackenzie Calls British Debate Vital, Dangerous

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The battle in the British house of commons between left-wing Socialists and the Labor (Socialist) government over foreign policy developed highly interesting though, in some respects, dangerous conclusions.

DewittMackenzie

The debate resolved about the rebel motion that the government's foreign policy steer a middle course between the United States and Russia. That was based on the premise that the Soviet Union and the United States were headed for war, and that Britain was bound to become involved in it by sewing to the American line.

R. H. S. Crossman, leader of the revolt, charged that the formation of a complete and exclusive Anglo-American tie-up—as urged by Winston Churchill in his Fulton, Missouri, speech early this year—had been followed by a steady split of the world into American and Russian blocks. He added:

Go to Paris or any other capital and you will find there is no doubt whatsoever that in the course of the last 18 months Great Britain has lined up on the American side in this struggle.

Well, now, the "complete" (though not exclusive) Anglo-American tie-up was made in the first world conflict, and it has continued ever since. Also we must remember that the end of the recent war found the Russian bloc already firmly established. It was not a post-War development and it would be safe to say it would have existed irrespective of Anglo-American relations. It is true that the wholly different ideological viewpoints between the east and the west have resulted in a widening of the division. By the same token it is equally true that Britain couldn't lessen the danger of difficulties with Russia merely by steering clear of American policies.

Attlee Gives Answer

Prime Minister Attlee in replying to the left-wingers said:

I think this motion is misconceived, is mistimed and based on a misconception of the facts. This government does not believe in the formation of groups or opposing groups of the east, west or center. We stand for the United Nations. We perhaps are more accustomed to compromise than some of those with whom we have to deal but compromise is the basis of a peaceful civilization.'

Answering the 'rebel' demand that he repudiate Churchill's Fulton speech, Attlee gave this middle-of-the-road reply.

'We are not seeking an exclusive Anglo-American alliance.'

Whether the left-wingers were satisfied, the fact remains that the government's foreign policy received a unanimous vote of confidence.

Finds Agreement There

Mr. Attlee will find plenty of people in America who agree with his dislike of blocs. Still he presumably wouldn't deny that, as world affairs now stand, blocs are necessary evils. Furthermore the present division (if there must be one) is on logical lines—ideological and racial. It's natural for the Slavic states to cling together, and the same is true of much of the western group, especially the English speaking peoples. And, of course, totalitarian Communism and western democracy are as oil and water to each other.

Paradoxically enough, it is possible that the "bloc" system may work out all right in the end. To make the United Nations organization function properly there must be world unity. That will come

2 PLEAD INNOCENT OF BANK ROBBERY

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 19—Bernard Howell, 24, and Glenn Neff, 21, awaited legal advice today as they pleaded innocent to charges of robbing the Thornville, O., bank of $167,000 in cash and bonds.

Bond was fixed at $50,000 each at the arraignment before U. S. Commissioner Robert W. Newton last night. Hearing before Federal Judge Meil G. Underwood was postponed until Thursday because the men had no counsel.

Howell and Neff were arrested early Sunday, less than 24 hours after two men held up the village People's bank, taking $18,000 in cash and the rest in bonds. The loot was recovered five miles from Thornville in a barn lot. Buried with the cache was a 32 caliber revolver.

FBI agents entered the case and with Sheriff Clair Butts of Perry county, state highway patrolmen and Columbus police arrested the two men, who the government agents said signed a statement admitting the robbery.

O. S. U. Gets Set for Battle with Michigan

Bixler Full of Confidence As Bucks Prep for Saturday Tilt

Movies of Illini Debacle Show Whisler Crossed Goal Line on Fourth Down.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 19—Ohio State's gridmen, spurred by the traditional "Beat Michigan" slogan, began today to coordinate their best ground and air power for Saturday's contest.

Echoing customary anti-Michigan football sentiment, Coach Paul Bixler told newsmen yesterday: "Don't worry about us being ready for Michigan. If we're going to be licked, Michigan will have a tough time doing it."

Team comment at yesterday's movies of the 16-7 setback by Illinois last Saturday disclosed an aroused Buckeye eleven. The pictures showed fullback Joe Whisler had crossed the goal line on his fourth down plunge in the third period. Unable to call the play from their position, officials set the ball on the one-inch line and turned it over to the Illini on downs.

Would Have Put Them Ahead

The touchdown would have given the Bucks a 14 to 9 advantage.

Bixler planned a reshuffled backfield because of injuries to two key backs, Jerry Krall and Alex Verdova. Krall, understudy to regular left half Tommy James, twisted his knee in the Pitt game, and missed last Saturday's contest.

Verdova, starting right half, injured a knee in the Illinois setback. Should Verdova miss the Michigan affair, Bixler said he might:

Knee Still Stiff

Verdova's knee was said to be sore and stiff yesterday and that it would be a day or two before his status in connection with the Wolverine game could be established.

Michigan, with the top rung in the Big Nine ladder at stake, also expects to be ready. If it beats the Bucks and Illinois loses to Northwestern, the Wolverines will be conference champs.

Buckeye scout Esco Sarkkinen described Michigan "as good as they come" and added Coach Fritz Crisler has no backfield reserve problem.

Ohio State reported today the 117-seat press box atop the Buckeye stadium will be filled to capacity for the first time this year. Besides the working press, scouts are expected from Stanford, looking over Michigan for next year's engagement. Missouri and Iowa scouts also are expected to watch Ohio State for next year.

Ohio State League's Frank Colley Among 8 Candidates.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 — At least eight candidates were being considered today by the American Association's board of directors as a successor to H. Roy Hamey as president of the triple A minor baseball league.

Hamey recently resigned to become general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates after succeeding George (Red) Trautman, who left the executive post early last year to become general manager of the Detroit Tigers.

Under consideration for the presidency were sports writers Bob Hooey of Columbus, O.; Halsey Hall of Minneapolis and Ronald McIntyre of St. Paul; as well as Parke Carroll, former business manager of the Minneapolis Millers; Frank Lane, Kansas City Blues' general manager; Tommy Richardson, president of the Eastern league; Frank Colley, president of the Ohio State league, and Gordon Gilmore former St. Paul baseball writer.

Local Hunter, 65, Shows 'Em How

Showing up his younger buddies, George Smith, of 267 Leader street, while hunting on the Porter farm, west of Green Camp, dropped a fox after others in his hunting party had fired many shots at the sly animal.

Smith, despite his years, is a keen hunting enthusiast and earned the monicker of One-Shot-Smith for his thrifty use of ammunition in killing the animal.

An Edison taxidermist said that the fox is a good specimen, being very red with black tipped ears and paws. It was full grown.

Mrs. Smith will be the ultimate benefactor as the skillful nimrod is having a fur piece made from the pelt.

IT'S SIGN MONDAY OR ELSE FOR DUROCHER

Rickey Says He's Going To Name Somebody Manager.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—If Leo Durocher is not ready to renew his managerial contract with the Brooklyn Dodgers by next Monday, Branch Rickey, club president, says he is going to appoint someone else.

Durocher, who told newspapermen at the conclusion of the National league pennant playoff with St. Louis last month that he would "stay in Brooklyn until the day I die," is now on the west coast. He last saw Rickey Oct. 31, in Columbus, O.

"I want him back here for a talk before I meet with newspapermen next week," Rickey said yesterday. "There's a lot to talk about and a lot of things to be explained. This thing has got to be settled. I don't want to be put in the embarrassing position of answering any questions until it is."

"But I'll say one thing, however," he added. "I'm getting fed up. Somebody's going to be named manager of the Dodgers Monday. It may be Durocher and it might be someone else."

During the speculation over the naming of a manager for the New York Yankees recently, it developed that Durocher had not signed a Dodger contract for 1947. After Bucky Harris was appointed to pilot the Yankees, Durocher revealed that he had been offered the job by Larry MacPhail, Yankee president.

Bucyrus Places 2 Men on N.O.L. 2nd String

BUCYRUS, Nov. 19.—Bucyrus gridders failed to place on the first string NOL league selections made by coaches, faculty managers and sports writers, but placed two Redmen on the second squad.

Galion placed one. Shelby four, Norwalk three, Upper Sandusky two and Willard one on the first string.

Miami's Seahawks Turn Eyes Upward

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 19—The Miami Seahawks today had visions of climbing out of the All American Football Bowl stadium last night, 21-14.

The Seahawks, with four more games to play and all of them at home buckled down to hard work in preparation for Monday night's meeting with the Los Angeles Dons.

After that comes the Cleveland Browns, New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers on successive Mondays.

A scant 5,592 paid to see last night's game.

The Bisons couldn't match the accurate passing of Marion Pugh and a hard-hitting forward wall that brought the seahawk's their second decision inside the conference, both over Bufflo.

WILL EARN $50,000

Primo Carnera Says "Wrestling, It's Wonderful."

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 — Hulking Primo Carnera says he will make $50,000 as a wrestler before his artists's visa expires in March and he returns to his home in Sequals, Italy.

"That may not be as much money as I made while boxing," said the 265-pound Carnera, in Chicago for his 73rd grunt and groan show since opening his new campaign in the U. S. and Canada last August.

"But I know this much," he added, "I have more money to take home to my wife and two children in Italy than I had when I boxed."

ONLY ONE REGULAR RETURNS AT LA RUE

Cage Squad Will Have Undefeated Reserve Team.

Special to The Star

LARUE—With only one regular performer returning from last year's cage team that won 12 games while losing five, the La Rue High school basketball team will open the season Wednesday night on the home floor with the Meeker quintet furnishing the opposition. The contest will be preceded by a reserve tilt starting at 8 p. m.

The holdover from last year's crew is Charles Leeth a guard of two years experience, who possesses a good eye for the basket from long range and is a clever ball handler and play maker. He will captain this year's team.

To go with Leeth will be the members of last year's reserve team which went through a 19-game schedule without defeat. This group includes Loren Gillispie, Burke Ballinger, Ralph Wilson, Harold Brocklesby, Don Ledman, John Tate and Dick Ford. John Boyles who performed with Central Junior High in Marion a year ago gives Coach Burton nine boys of equal ability from which to choose a starting team.

The lack of height will be the chief handicap to this year's five. Not a boy among the 28 now practicing reaches the coveted six-foot mark. The tallest is Ford who is 5-11, but has had very little experience at the hardwood sport.

The first Marion county league contest is booked for the Claridon floor Dec. 6 against last year's league and tournament champions, who have most of the members of that strong crew returning.

Other non-league games, besides the opener with Meeker Wednesday, include a home and home series with Marseilles, always one of the best class B teams in this section.

The complete schedule follows: Nov. 20, Meeker; Dec. 6, at Claridon; Dec. 10, Marseilles; Dec. 13, at Kirkpatrick, Dec. 16; Waldo; Jan. 3, at Martel; Jan 7, Pleasant; Jan. 10, at Prospect; Jan. 17, Meeker; Jan. 16, at Marseilles; Jan. 24, at Green Camp; Jan. 28, New Bloomington; Jan. 31, Morral; Feb. 7, Caledonia.

Bill Veeck Gets Pass

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 19—After a month in a hospital, where his right foot was amputated, President Bill Veeck of the Cleveland Indians was back in his hotel suite today.

He was given a "pass" to visit the Cleveland-Chicago football game Sunday and made out so well he was released from the hospital yesterday.

Veeck said he planned to attend the Page One ball of the Cleveland Newspaper Guild tonight and serve as host Thursday night at a dinner for Indian stockholders.

His foot was injured during service in the Marines and failed to heal properly.

Al Szasz, Steve Nenoff Booked for Rematch

Al Szasz will engage Steve Nenoff in a return match Thursday night at the Armory. Last week Szasz handed Nenoff his first defeat on the local mat in several weeks. This will be a three fall, two hour match.

In a three fall one hour match Gordon Hensell of Milwaukee will go against Dale Haddock of Detroit.

A preliminary boxing match will be held at 8:30. Dick Murton and Jim Garver, local boys, will participate.

$13,000 Top Bid Made At Race Horse Sale

By The Associated Press

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 19 — The Keeneland fall sales went into the second day today after a top bid of $13,000 at the opening yesterday for a six-year-old chestnut mare by Case Ace-Hash Hurry, Hurriette, which was consigned by Jonabell Farms and bought by C. E. Nelson.

A total of 197 thoroughbreds sold for $486,760 yesterday.

Other better prices included $11,000 for Mon Torch, a brown colt by Easy Mon-Princess Torch, and $8,500 for an unnamed brown colt by Pictor-Silver Wave.

Mon Torch was consigned by Lawrence Robinson and purchased by J. B. Latta. The unnamed colt was the property of Ira Drymon and was bought by F. C. Podesta.

Cabbies To Play Cincinnati Dakotas Here Tomorrow

Local Semi-Pros To Share Box Office Take in Special Benefit Game.

Having the Marion team fairly well scouted, the Cincinnati Dakota A. C. semi-pro football club will be the team which the Cabbies will meet tomorrow night at the stadium.

This will be a player benefit game, the gate receipts to be divided among members of the squad. The Marion players are going to get a percentage of what has been made on other home games but this amount will not be great. Tomorrow night, Marion fans will be able to show squad members appreciation for the way they have played in the past season by attending the game.

Members of the Dakotas were in Dayton Sunday afternoon to scout the Marion club which used almost every play they had against the Bombers. Marion on the other hand has never seen the Dakotas in action.

The Marion team however plans to pull a bigger surprise against the Dakotas than any they have pulled against a team this season. Bob Ivey, former Marion boy who performed so capably with the Dayton Bombers and is probably one of the best natural runners in Ohio semi-professional football, has decided to return to Marion and may be with the Cabbies in their tilt against the Dakotas.

With this player at one of the halfback positions, Marion will have a club that may become practically invincible. All Marion players are agreed he is probably the most capable back that they have ever played against. The Marion clubs blocking is now improved to the point where a back such as Ivey should be able to get going against their opposition.

Have Two More Games.

The Safety Cab club has two more games carded for this season, all to be played at home. Their next game will be Saturday night with a club out of either Columbus or Wilmington and as a finale they will play the 740 A. C.'s of Columbus on Thanksgiving day.

Marion may be lacking reserve strength because of injuries. Bob Higgins and Ned Samples are certain to be out for the rest of the season and Howard Richardson and Nick Cafagno may not be in condition for this contest. Martin Lewis, the team's regular captain, probably won't be with the team either. Richardson, Cafagno and Samples all played in the game proceding the engagement with the Bombers, while Higgins was hurt in the Hill Top game and Lewis also has not played since that contest. The other Marion players however should be able to go against the Dakotas.

Special entertainment is planned as a half-time feature.

2 INDIANA CAGE PROS GUN FOR SECOND WIN

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 — Indianapolis and Fort Wayne, Ind., both victorious in their opening games, make their second starts of the season tonight seeking to remain among the undefeated four teams in the National Basketball league.

Youngstown (O.), which dropped its fourth consecutive game last night to undefeated Anderson, Ind., is at Indianapolis while Fort Wayne is at Detroit. Detroit will be seeking its first win after losing twice. Indianapolis, with a 51-47 debut win over Oshkosh, Wis.; Fort Wayne, which beat Youngstown 61-53 in its opener Sunday; Anderson and Rochester, N. Y., make up the unbeaten teams in the league.

Anderson won its fourth decision last night by beating the Youngstown Bears 66-58 before a home crowd of 3,500. The Bears pulled into a 29-29 tie at halftime, but the Packers sailed ahead 56-44 in the third quarter. Forward Ticco caged four baskets for the Bears in the last quarter to win scoring honors with 14 points.

6 Veterans Return To Ashley's Cage Team

Return of six lettermen to the school's cage squad is expected to add vitality to this year's crop of Ashley Aces. Regulars Fred Riley, Gerald Hines and Willis Murray will be back in harness and letter winners Jim Spires, Bob Bratcher and Dick Knauber are bidding for berths.

Coaching the Aces this year is Thorval Mattax, who studied his mentoring under Indiana's Branch McCracken.

The Ace's schedule for the remainder of the year is: Nov. 26, Brown; Nov. 29, at Waldo; Dec. 6, Harlem; Dec. 13, at Powell; Dec. 17, Prospect; Dec. 27, open; Dec. 31, Waldo; Jan. 31, Galena; Jan. 10, at Sunbury Jan. 14, Marion St. Mary; Jan. 17, at Radnor; Jan. 24, Orange; Jan. 31, at Berlin; Feb. 7, Bellpoint.

However, few realize that Musial and Dyer belong to that select few which seem to be favored by Lady Fortune.

Musial has spent four full seasons in the big leagues and each year has seen him on a pennant winning outfit. Dyer goes Musial one better. He has had five winners in his last five years as manager.

Musial, who won't reach his 26th birthday until a week from today, joined the Cards late in 1941 and his .426 batting average in a dozen games nearly gave the Cards a pennant in a tooth-and-nail fight with Brooklyn.

The Donora, Pa., clouter got into 140 games in 1942 and batted .315 to help the Redbirds win their first pennant in eight years. The Cards went on to defeat the Yankees in the World Series. The Cards again won the National league title in '43 and '44 with Musial batting a cool .357 in '43 and 10 points lower in '44.

Missed Losing Year

Musial went into military service in January of 1945—and the Cards finished second to the Chicago Cubs. He was discharged in March of 1946—and the Redbirds went on to gain their fourth championship in five years.

Dyer began his sequence in championships in 1939 when he led the Cardinal-owned Houston team to a Texas league pennant. He repeated with Houston the next two years.

In 1942, the 46-year-old Southerner took over the Cardinal-owned Columbus team in the American Association and guided it to a junior World Series victory over Syracuse of the International league.

New Cage League Off To Successful Season

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—If the Professional Basketball Association of America can click the way its New York entry, the Knickerbockers, have with their set shots, the newly organized cage circuit's success is virtually assured.

The Knicks attempted 25 long set shots last night and connected with 16 for a phenomenal .640 percentage. These long, accurate heaves enabled them to defeat the Detroit Falcons 61-57 in the second Madison Square Garden encounter before 10,126 fans.

In last night's only other scheduled contest, the Pittsburgh Ironmen won their second game against five losses by defeating the Toledo Huskies 54-48.

Ohio Farm Bureau Federation Meets

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O., Nov. 19—The Ohio Farm Bureau federation opened its 28th annual meeting today with Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, president of the Federal Council of Churches, heading the speakers roster. His subject was "Must we fight a Third World War?"

The federation lifted its wartime restrictions and opened the sessions to the public.

Perry L. Green, federation president, was scheduled to make his annual address this afternoon, with Murray D. Lincoln, secretary of the board of trustees slated to speak at the evening session. Brief talks by bureau representatives who attended the recent International Cooperative Alliance congress at Zurich, Switzerland also were on the program.

Two Exponents of Table Tennis To Stage Exhibition at YMCA

Exponents of two entirely different methods of play, Harry Cook and Doug Courtland, will put on an exhibition of table tennis at the YMCA Thursday night at 8. Both players are international champions, Cook being probably the greatest defensive player in the game and Courtland an offensive player.

Dubbed the Paddles Princes, these two players have toured the world, playing in the U. S., Canada and Europe before millions of fans. They were acclaimed by G. I.'s in Europe when they made a USO tour in 1944 and 1945.

Any Marion player will be offered a chance to play either of the champions after Courtland and Cook engage in a regular match game. Both players are so confident of their skill that Courtland will offer a $25 savings bond to anyone who can beat him while Cook will take on the best of Marion seated firmly in a chair.

One of the features of their exhibition will be a clinic in which they will conduct a class in group instruction on the proper grip, position of feet and shoulder, how to use the top spin and chop, tricky serves, forehand and backhand serves, drop shots, smashes, and other shots.

Not content to play the game in the conventional manner, they will play with four balls at one time and show a few other manuevers, which, if executed properly are sure to throw an opponent off balance. This includes using the head instead of the paddle, returning the ball from behind the back, and forcing an opponent to hit in a certain direction.

Courtland will tell his opponent exactly where he, the opponent, will place the return as one of the features.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 — Those reports from the south that Alabama's Frank Thomas is like'y to reure from football coaching before another season seem to have been a bit premature. Thomas seriously ill at the start of the season, said the other day he felt better than he had in six months and believed a good rest after the season should make him good as new. If he feels that way after losing, a few victories should effect a complete cure. Army's footballers have been kicking themselves ever since they saw pictures of the Notre Dame game because they found at least six scoring opportunities that were lost. Maybe that's why they kicked Penn around for a change. Still they wouldn't care much for a rematch. Herman Hickman's comment on the suggestion that they play it over in the Sugar Bowl was: "That wouldn't make anybody happy."

• • •

One-Minute Sports Page

The Giants' Steve Owen maintains he'd rather have Bull Dudley, who'll play against him for the Steelers next Sunday, than any other back in the National Football league. "He can beat you when you have the ball," Steve says. Add negatives. If Bull Donelli is in line to succeed Andy Kerr as Colgate coach, he wishes some one would tell him about it. In spite of the new ticket sale regulations designed to give Gus Fan a break at Garden basketball, there will be virtually no public sale for the season's third doubleheader Dec. 2. NYU vs. Connecticut and Manhattan vs. Western Michigan. Alumni and undergrads will take most of the seats. Artie Dorrell, who was a better than fair welterweight before the war, recently took a screen test in Hollywood and is in line for a good picture role.

The Best Laid Plans

Coach Jack Weinheimer of NYU tells this one of how his Violets finally beat Fordham last week in about the wildest game of the season. "All my quarterbacks were hurt so I sent Cy Kuppersmith in the game on only one leg with orders to stay back and do what he could. Cy told Vincent Finn to throw him a pass. 'But you can't run,' Finn objected. 'Well, they know I can't, so they won't be watching me. I'll slip out there in the flat,' insisted Kuppersmith. Then as they went into the huddle, Finn slapped Dave Millman on the back and whispered, 'I'll throw it to you.' He did, and that's how we planned that touchdown play."

We Wuz Robbed

Ben Van Alstyne, Michigan State basketball coach, thought it was bad enough when Robin Roberts and Robert Robbins both turned up for his team. Now he has a new candidate, Jim Robberts, and Ben says it's a cinch all three will be in the lineup together some time. About then some confused fan likely will claim the referees are robbers.

ONE GOOD ARGUMENT for the belief that the pass receiver is more important than the pass tosser is Don Hutson, who snagged em regularly for the Green Bay Packers for 11 years. Now retired from active play, Hutson is assisting at coaching the team. This year's aerial whizbang gave the Packers coast honors. Here Don (8) is pulling them down from the ozone.

Cincinnati University Co-eds Battle for Band

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 19 — A group of men students advocate restoring the University of Cincinnati marching band to pre-war status—an all-male organization, but 16 girl musicians indicate they will oppose the movement.

The men who want the horn-tooting "sisterhood" exclusively argue the organization's constitution. The U. C. band must be a male organization.

A spokesman for the girls replied: "We were good enough to play in the band during the war (when the manpower shortage forced admission of girl to the band) and we ought to be good enough to play now. We can play and march as well as any of the men."

A meeting has been scheduled for tomorrow night.

It's Army in a Photo Finish For No. 1 Football Team

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 — It was ...t Army in a photo finish over Notre Dame today for the No. 1 spot among the nation's football outfits—and the Bowerymen ... defeated over Pennsylvania and Texas.

Balloting in The Associated Press' weekly poll of the sports writers of the country left the careening Cadets from West Point at the head of the parade by the slim margin of 50 points over the Irish, with the nubeaten-untied team of George and University of California at Los Angeles holding third and fourth, respectively.

But the 41-7 pounding Penn absorbed from Army last Saturday and Texas' second upset setback of the season this one by Texas Christian, dropped the Quakers and the Longhorns completely out of the select top-ten set, with Louisiana State and Southern California moving up to replace them.

Altogether, 110 sports writers from coast to coast and one from Honolulu voted for their leading ten elections after last Saturday's scrambling. Of these 58 put Army on top all alone, compared to 34 a week ago, and 16 voted the Irish in front. Twenty-three others balloted a tie, voting for a two-fer-one-throne as a result of the scoreless deadlock the two outfits unfurled the previous week, and the 2-0 decision the Irish were taking over Northwestern while the Cadets were clouting the Quakers last Saturday.

The other 13 first place ballots were split between Georgia and UCLA, the Bulldogs collecting eight compared to their 12 of last week, and the Uclans getting five.

Injured Near Ashley

ASHLEY, Ronald Burns, 8 son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Burns of Columbus was the victim of an accident Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wheeler south of Ashley. Ronald was sighting a gun when it accidentally discharged the hammer striking between the eyes inflicting a deep gash.

Iowa's less than in the previous poll.

On a basis of ten points for a first place vote, nine for a second, eight for a third, and so forth, Army rolled up 1,053 points, just 50 more than the 1,003 for Notre Dame, with Georgia collecting 835 and UCLA 760.

Largest jump of the week was made by Illinois, which leaped from ninth to fifth place, with 527 points, as a result of the 16-7 victory over Ohio State which put the Illini out in front in the Big Nine conference chase.

Cleveland Hockey Player In Tie for Loop's Scoring Lead

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—Members of the two teams currently tied for leadership in the American Hockey league's Western division have a corner on the circuit's individual scoring honors this week.

Johnny Holota of the Cleveland Barons pulled into a tie with the scoring leader of the last two weeks, Norm Burns of the New Haven Ramblers. Each has 24 points, although Holota has played in only 15 games to Burns' 16.

The Pittsburgh Hornets, deadlocked with Cleveland for the Western half supremacy, have four players among the league's top ten scorers. Wally Wilson and Jack Hamilton are tied for second place with 22 points apiece. Pittsburgh's Don Metz and John O'Flaherty are two of the five league skaters in a tie for third place.

Jack McGill of the Hershey Bears, topping the Eastern division, is one of the players in the third-place contention, while Lloyd Doran and Tony Bukovich of Indianapolis are the others. The Indianapolis club is only a scant one-point margin behind the Western division leaders, Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

Hershey's Harvey Bennett is the circuit's leading goal-tender with a 2.13 average of goals against per game. He is tied with Ralph Almas of Indianapolis and Jimmy Henry of New Haven for turning in the most shutouts, two.

The league's "tough guy" continued to be Eddie Bush, St. Louis Flyers' defenseman who has spent a total of 52 minutes in the penalty box.

Cleveland Electrical Sets Production Mark

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 19 — Production of lighting equipment for homes, factories, streets and airports by the Cleveland lighting division of Westinghouse Electric Corp. has surpassed even the wartime peak to establish a new record rate, Division Manager W. F. White reported today.

Heaviest demand is for fluorescent lighting fixtures and parts, but demands for all types of lighting equipment are unprecedented and far ahead of the industry's ability to supply, White said.

The Cleveland plant now has under way a $1,900,000 expansion of facilities expected to increase foundry capacity by 100 per cent. Present employment of 1,300 is 300 above the previous peak, but the division expects to add 500 more workers soon, White continued.

Despite four months of idleness as a result of strikes at the beginning of the year, production for 1946 will double that of 1940 but fall slightly below that for 1942.

U. S. Has Hero Who Tastes Poison And Says It Is Salty

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—The government came up today with a hero—a fellow who has learned what the potent poison 1080 tastes like.

Sort of salty, our hero says.

Now a fellow who has tasted 1080 will skip rope with a live electric wire, play patty-cake with a man-hating tiger, and use a strychnine solution as a mouthwash.

Only crows and stakes guarding recent control orders covered by experts get the poison. All of it is nasty because the first 1,079 attempts to concoct a super poison were failures.

Today a fish and wildlife service bulletin says flatly that 1080 tastes salty.

How do the F and W people know?

"That's easy," Dr. Arnold L. Nelson, assistant chief of the wildlife research service, told a reporter. "Somebody tasted it."

And who is this tasty bud hero?

"Oh, I don't know," replied Nelson. "But somebody did. Probably it was somebody in our Denver laboratory."

Nelson said poison-tasting is simple. A scientist knows the poison's strength. So he doesn't take enough to kill. Then he tastes, but doesn't swallow.

"Not much to it, really."

Would Dr. Nelson duplicate the experiment performed by our unidentified hero?

"Who, me?" asked Dr. Nelson. "Great Heavens, no!"

And he turned as pale as 1080.

CBS, which asked the hearing on behalf of its system using a motor-driven color disc, has had no official comment since the recent demonstration of an all-electronic system by RCA. But the science hasn't been due to any change in policy. It is going right ahead.

As a matter of fact the CBS engineering staff is busy compiling data and exhibits for presentation to the commission in support of its method. That also is true of the other side.

From the technical standpoint, a basic argument seems to be shaping up as much over the wave form to be adopted for transmission as it is over whether the color reproducer is to be motor-driven or all-electric. The CBS system uses the sequential method, in which a red, blue and green picture is sent one after the other. The RCA is simultaneous, with the colors sent continuous, wit hthe colors sent cintuously.

There also are various other differences but one factor which the commission has indicated it would consider is whether a color system could be adapted into the present black and white operation. RCA has said its method is designed to do just that, while the CBS functions separately.

VETS' FARM PLAN WILL BE STUDIED

Meeting Set for Court Room Wednesday Night.

A special meeting to discuss the opening of a veterans' agricultural training program in Marion county will be held Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the common pleas court room of the courthouse, according to an announcement today from Arthur H. Smith, county agricultural agent.

Scheduled to speak at the meeting, which is open to all interested veterans, are Ralph Howard, supervisor of vocational agriculture, state department of education, and Russell G. Zimmerman of Mansfield, assistant training officer for the veterans administration. They will discuss the manner in which the program operates and how it assists veterans interested in agriculture.

The program, which operates under the GI bill of rights, would provide both classroom work and on-the-job training for veterans. Mr. Smith said today approximately ten veterans in the county already had expressed a desire to participate in the program. If enough veterans are signed up, two schools may be established in the county, he said.

D. T. Mills, county superintendent of schools, is chairman of the veterans agricultural training committee.

Merged Church Names Publication Editors

By The Associated Press

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 19—The new Evangelical United Brethren church, in conference here, last night named editors and publishers to handle its various publications.

Roy H. Stetler of Harrisburg, Pa., and Dr. L. L. Huffman of Dayton, O., were chosen publishers of church periodicals issued in their cities.

Dr. J. W. Krecker of Red Lion, Pa., was named editor and Dr. E. E. Harris of Dayton associate editor of a new adult weekly publication of the church. Before the new church was formed Saturday, by a union of the Evangelical and United Brethren in Christ churches, Dr. Krecker was editor of the "Evangelical Messenger" and Dr. Harris editor of the U. B. church's "Religious Telescope."

These editorial workers, like other officials of the E. U. B. church, will take office Jan. 1.

Milk Mixture for Stomach Ulcers

A recent medical discovery now used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcers caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective, in many cases the pains of stomach ulcers disappear almost immediately. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion, heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of LURIN from their druggist. LURIN contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonfuls in a half glass of milk. Costs but little. Must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by Hamsley & Cooper Drugstore and drug stores everywhere.

VET HOUSING TO BE AIRED

Housing Banking Committee To Launch Investigation in January.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—A congressional investigation of the veterans' housing program, to determine whether government controls impede rather than spur new building, today was made the first business for the house banking committee in January.

Rep. Wolcott, Michigan Republican who succeeds Rep. Spence (D-Ky) as committee chairman, told newsmen the quick inquiry will be aimed at uncovering the "basic faults" of the program with the view to speedy passage of remedial legislation.

Describing the present program as "outrageously bad," Wolcott said "there is little time to lose. The investigation must be the first order of business for the committee."

The veterans' housing program, passed by congress last spring under urging of President Truman, was designed to provide almost 3,000,000 houses for veterans in two years. It includes priorities on materials for veterans and $400,000,000 in subsidies to increase the production of scarce building materials.

"There have been so many rumors about the housing program that they are crying for an investigation," Wolcott said, adding:

"I've heard that only about 350,000 homes have been completed—and I stress the word completed—under the program administered by Wilson Wyatt (housing administrator).

"In 1941, the last year of comparative free enterprise, we built 715,000 housing units in this country. And if that 350,000 figure for the program under government controls is only half true, then the program is bogged down."

Wolcott said he expected the investigation to take no more than a week, explaining that he expects individual committee members to make independent inquiries between now and the convening of congress.

MODEST MAIDENS

By Jay Alan

"I'm afraid my husband doesn't trust me anymore!"

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I WAS ashamed of the trepidation I felt as I knocked on Marion's door. After all, I told myself, she was but a young collegiate, while I was a woman of much and varied experience, but I know only too well the fanatical ideas—and ideals—of youth, the tenacity with which they hold them, not exactly contempt, but near it—which the younger generation has for the older ones.

However, I had no choice. Someway, somehow, I must bring her to consent to the espionage over Carolyn which my father considered so necessary. But I was conscious that my knees were shaking when she opened the door.

"Oh, Auntie Madge!" she said. "How wonderful to see you! Is Mummy coming along? I was just going over to her room."

An Artificial Smile

"Not just yet," I told her. "You see,"—I was conscious that my smile was distinctly artificial—"I asked you mother's permission to see you alone for a few minutes."

If she was surprised, she did not betray her astonishment. With a poise as perfect as her mother's, she dre / a chair forward for me.

"That means, I hope, that I can do something for you," she said. "Do sit down!"

"I'm going to," I told her, taking the seat she proffered. "And you can do something, not alone for me, but for your country. That is what I have come to tell you. But I am sure you are not going to like the task. I would loathe it if I were in your place. But—I would feel compelled to do it."

Face Grows Pale

Her face paled, and there was a swallowing motion in her throat. Then she straightened her body, raised her head, with gestures so like her mother's that I could almost believe Lillian faced me, and in her mother's own uncanny fashion, fathomed her problem.

"I suppose you mean," she said steadily, but I knew what that composure of speech was costing her, "that you wish me to spy upon Carolyn, and report her speech and actions to you."

"Darling girl," I said with tremulous appeal in my voice, "will you let me wait to answer that question until I acquaint you more fully with the reasons for the request I am making of you?"

For a second her face was sullen. Then her eyes met mine with the frankness and affection which have always been in them for me.

"Of course," she said, "and I will not interrupt you."

"You may, if you feel you must," I told her, then paused, inwardly praying for aid to frame my next sentences.

"Your mother tells me that you know the secret of the subterranean room and the chimney stone in the attic," I began, after an instant.

Her face lighted with the irrepressible enthusiasm of the young over melodrama.

"Yes, isn't it thrilling?" she exclaimed.

"Indeed it is," I answered, "but it is more than that. It means secrets so important to the nation, that any person knowing of them must put the safety of that knowledge above everything else, even personal love and loyalty.

"You may be sure," I went on, "that Ronald, risking his life daily over the Pacific, would tell you the same thing if he were here. And—" I measured my words, tried to make them impressive—"if anything goes wrong with the secrets which that underground room holds, it may very well spell life or death for Ronald."

Hands Twist Together

Her hands twisted together in a grip that I knew must be cruelly painful.

"Oh, please tell me quickly what you want me to do!" she said.

"I want you to watch Carolyn as if she were a deadly enemy to the country," I said flatly.

"She wouldn't do anything to hurt Ronald," Marion flamed out.

I leaned forward and took her twisting hands in a firm grip.

"Of course she wouldn't mean to do anything to hurt her brother," I said, "But you ought to know, better than anyone else, how much harm her irresponsible actions can do."
